New Partner at Pritchard Englefield

The partners of Pritchard Englefield are delighted to announce that Geraldine Fabre has become a partner of the firm.

Geraldine qualified as a solicitor in 1999. After a few years as an in-house counsel for a multinational utility company, she specialised in mergers and acquisitions work advising both English and foreign businesses of varying sizes, ranging from multinational corporations to smaller, family-run enterprises. She has strong experience in the areas of M&A, Corporate Finance, private equity and banking acting for Limited Companies, PLCs and institutional investors based in the UK or abroad.

As a native French speaker and dually-qualified lawyer, she also has a particular focus on assisting French-speaking clients with their legal requirements in the UK and developing the firm's international practice.
